Ladders and stairs are made for one purpose: to bridge heights. Their simple shapes and clean lines make them not only practical but often visually appealing as well. They literally bring us up and down, but also symbolize growth, change, and ambition. In the exhibition Stairway to..?, more than 40 artists demonstrate how ladders and stairs have continued to inspire artists and designers for generations. In the Elleboogkerk, artist Stephen Dean created the new installation ECHO. Dean is known for his use of dichroic glass in his large-scale ladder sculptures.
